Ode to Burgundy

drink were there no price tag or difficult economy. In total hedonistic fashion, our response is Burgundy. After working the harvest at Domaine Dujac in Autumn of 2002, we fell in love with the people, the wines and the land. The following is a letter from France written after a glorious day of vineyard work:

Dear Friends, We have been picking grapes for four straight days, and our bodies have never hurt so much. It is a wonderful experience, nonetheless, because the people are amazing and the wines are beautiful. The highlight of the trip came yesterday when I performed the pigeage for Vosne Romanee Les Beaumonts 2002. For those of you who have no idea what I am speaking of, think of the I Love Lucy episode where she was barefooted stomping grapes. Instead, I was in Stephen's boxer shorts and a Brooklyn t-shirt up to my armpits in Pinot Noir breathing in the sweet smell of CO2. My instructions were "don't get your head in or you'll die." Many pictures were taken, and the comment of the day was "there will always be a little Inez in this wine." Besides the day I married Stephen, it was the best day of my life.
